Dr. Harold Zhang is a professor of finance at the Naveen Jindal School of Management at the University of Texas at Dallas. He received his PhD in Economics from Duke University. Prior to joining the University of Texas at Dallas, he was an Associate Professor at the Kenan-Flagler Business School at the University of North Carolina from 2000 to 2005, and was an Assistant Professor at the Graduate School of Industrial Administration at the Carnegie Mellon University from 1994 to 2000.

His research has focused on investment, asset pricing, taxation, and mortgage securitization. Professor Zhang has made important contributions on how investors optimally allocate their wealth to financial and housing assets, and utilize taxable and tax-deferred investment opportunities. Professor Zhang has presented his research at numerous conferences and academic institutions. His research has been published in top finance journals such as the Journal of Finance and the Review of Financial Studies. Professor Zhang and his collaborators are the recipient of the prestigious TIAA-CREF Paul A. Samuelson Award for the outstanding scholarly writing on lifelong financial security for their recent paper titled “Optimal Asset Location and Allocation with Taxable and Tax-deferred Investing” published in the Journal of Finance. The paper was also nominated for the Smith-Breeden Prize. He has also won the Barclay’s Global Investors/Michael Brennan Runner-Up Award for the best paper published in the Review of Financial Studies. Professor Zhang served as an associate editor for the Journal of Business and Economic Statistics and is currently an associate editor for the Journal of Financial Econometrics.