DIWALI.
Same spiel as last time- get your ticket already. You see the food to the right? Yeah, you want that. This is happening THIS FRIDAY in Capstone and there will be food, DJ, entertainment, and an open bar. Tickets are still available for a just $15. Doors open at 6pm.

NEWSLETTER & IMBA HAPPENINGS

Unless you have been living under a rock (or in our case, under a non-stop barrage of exams), you should know about the following upcoming events:

The Moore Association of Graduate Women Annual Symposium on November 17th will be held at the Inn at USC in the Carolina Room. Listen to women such as Candy Mielke of LinkedIn. You do not need to be female to attend, but you DO need to RSVP on the Moore website.

Next week is International Education Week. “What?” you say? “That’s like every day in this program.” Ahh, but some schools don’t have it like we do. Anyhow, it’s a good excuse to have a potluck (Monday), movie (Tuesday) and daily speakers from around the globe.

Need karma points? A food drive is happening in the Grad Lounge and by the mailboxes. Contributing on November 19th will even earn you a massage.

For newsletter comments and questions, contact Kelly Truesdale or Erin Smith.